

M'Arthur and Nimitz Confer

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander in chief of Allied forces in the Southwest Pacific, and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, shown above have met and planned "a maximum of cooperative effort against the enemy," according to a joint announcement at headquarters of the two top Pacific commanders of the war against Japan. It was their first conference since the outbreak of the war, and was held in Australia.—(International)

Enemy's Invasion of India Falters; Hollandia Campaign Finished

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
Allied reports from all quarters pictured the Japanese today as taking a beating on the five fronts running his inflated empire.
The enemy's invasion of India was being chopped to pieces. His offensive in North China was losing its steam. Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell maintained his steady advance in Burma and in the Southwest and Central Pacific zones it was all take and no give for the Nipponese.

Around Kohima, the Indian city guarding the Assam-Bengal railway supplying Stilwell's troops, Allied forces were reported liquidating enemy strongpoints. Southeast Asia headquarters also said British and Indian troops were advancing southeast of Kohima, while a superior Allied air arm struck hard in support of ground operations. The general success of the British counter-offensive seemed about to wipe out Japanese hopes of seizing Kohima before the heavy rains come in three weeks.

In response to Associated Press inquiries, Southeast Asia headquarters said there was no justification for American uneasiness concerning the invasion of India. It said the Leda road was going forward and the Allied strategic schedule was not being delayed.

Chinese Repulse Enemy
In China enemy troops were thrown out of Hulao pass with heavy casualties. Chungking reported, and the threat to Loyang in northern Honan was thereby reduced. Two other Nipponese columns were forced to halt and retreat, the Chinese high command announced, and generally the situation was better.

Gen. Stilwell's forces took two more villages, putting his Chinese within eight or ten miles of Kamaing, Mogung valley enemy base. U. S. bombers and fighters set large fires in Myitkya, key to reopening the Burma road, which is Stilwell's major objective.

The Hollandia-Aitape invasion was finished. From the new bases in New Guinea Allied planes took off.

ATTACK! ON THE TRAIL OF THE NIPS—AND NO FOOLING

SOMEWHERE AHEAD there are Japs. The dirty Japs that raped Nanking. American soldiers, members of the 37th division, former Ohio National Guard, are after them. The scene is Bougainville, Solomon Islands. This is the real thing. A tank goes forward with infantrymen following. One soldier gets out of a foxhole at right. Another crawls forward in center. The man in foreground is firing. The soldier nearest the tank is running to another position. The Japs were attacking U. S. positions in the Empress Augusta Bay beachhead. In 18 days of this type of bitter fighting more than 7,000 Japs were killed. U. S. Signal Corps photo. (International)

ALL OUT AIR OFFENSIVE IN ITS 15TH DAY

Industrial and Military Targets Blasted; Severe Damage Is Admitted

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 29.—Two thousand U. S. warplanes smashed at Berlin today with probably the greatest daylight attack in history. Bombers flying from Italy at the same time hit the port and submarine pens of Toulon, France, to cap the 15th day of the pre-invasion onslaught in which Allied aircraft have rained approximately 75,000 tons of bursting and flaming steel upon Hitler territory.
"Industrial and military targets" were singled out for the daylight assault which hit the capital city about noon, the U. S. headquarters announcement said.
The Berlin radio, whose own operators were thrown into confusion by the blow, acknowledged "serious damage."
The great air fleet was the second such armada the American command has sent into Europe's skies this week. Munich and Friedrichshafen were hit by a similar force Monday.

Second in 12 Hours
Well over 70,000 tons of explosives have been dumped on Hitler's plane and anti-invasion installations in the 15-day period of Allied fleets thrusting into Europe from both Britain and Italy.

Today's assault was the second long-range blow at Hitler's air force in a little more than 12 hours. Last night a small fleet of RAF Lancasters thundered a similar distance—more than 1,200 miles—across the North sea and hit a major German airbase repair depot at Kjeiler, 11 miles outside Oslo.

The Berlin radio said other fleets of American bombers were over northwest and southwest Germany today, and claimed they were met by "strong forces" of German fighters.

Residential quarters of the battered capital city were damaged today, and fires were left raging by the daylight attackers, the broadcast continued. It said air battles developed "all over Berlin" and were continued when the enemy left.

Germany's capital last was raided by American sky fleets April 18, when large formations of heavy bombers and fighters hit the city, downing at least 34 German planes and destroying some 21 others on the ground to the loss of 19 bombers and six fighters.

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THIS REPRESENTS one of the most trying and dangerous moments of the war for our home front, which not only provides Uncle Sam's fighting forces but equips them with all the sinews of war.
It's trying because of the terrible strain of waiting for D-day—of waiting for word that our boys finally have battled their way up the beaches of western Europe and established secure positions.

It's dangerous because we know (perhaps unfortunately) that Hitler's ultimate defeat is certain and that the great invasion represents the coup de grace. That knowledge easily might cause us to slacken in our war effort—something which mustn't happen at this crucial juncture.

Any slowing up means unnecessary protraction of the conflict. It means additional bloodshed and suffering.

True, in some few categories we have reached a point of production where there can be tapering off. But the day and night rush to provide the mountains of other material for our men must go on.

Take just one item to illustrate—aviation gasoline. Here are involved not only the production and the various operations necessary to land it on the fighting fronts, but conservation of gas by the home front. The black market operator in gasoline is a traitor to his country.

A year ago the German controlled radio Paris broadcast this: "Britain may soon have to limit her air activity since large-scale raids demand enormous fuel supplies."

Well, the American and British air fleets have raised a lot of hell with Germany since then—but radio Paris was right about the amount of gas required. There has been a steadily increasing hurricane of bombing during the last year until we finally reached the pre-invasion assault which began 15 days ago.

In the first fortnight of this invasion...

PAY TRIBUTE TO SEC. KNOX

Navy Officials Commend Chief's Efforts As Rites Are Arranged

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—"Well done, Frank Knox."
Those words, spoken by Adm. Ernest J. King, Navy commander-in-chief, stand today as an epitaph for Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox who died yesterday from recurrent heart attacks.

In the cold, terse language of naval communications, they are the highest tribute that can be paid a navy man.

King paid the tribute shortly after word of the secretary's death reached yesterday afternoon was flashed by radio to all naval vessels and shore stations throughout the world by James V. Forrestal, under-secretary, who automatically became acting secretary of the navy.

Then King added: "We dedicate ourselves, one and all, to what would surely have been his last order—carry on."

The Navy will do that. Forrestal directed that Monday, when Knox is buried in Arlington national cemetery with full military honors, flags on all ships and at all stations shall fly at half mast. But, he said, "because the nation is at war the firing of salutes and the wearing of mourning badges shall be dispensed with."

The death of the 70-year-old newspaper publisher who became secretary of the navy in July, 1940, while German forces were sweeping through Europe, came after six days illness—an illness that was not considered serious until yesterday.

Kelley Will Edit High School Paper For 1944-45 Term

James Kelley, Salem High school Junior, has been named editor of "The Quaker," High school weekly publication, for 1944-45. Selection of Kelley, who has been a member of the editorial staff for three years and managing editor for the weekly this year was announced by Jack Rance, present editor, and Faculty Advisor H. C. Lehman.

Informal initiation was held recently by the Salem High Thespians club for 12 new members, including Sally Campbell, Jean Tombs, James Cope, Jack Emery, Jackie Jensen, Pat Keener, Mary Lou Mason, Mary Mullins, Dolores Poorbaugh, Jeanne Sharp, Ernest Ware and Richard Widmyer.

Members must have a minimum of 12 club points, at least a "C" scholastic average and in the junior or senior classes.

Committees arranging the initiation were: Program, Richard Butler; Betty Cibula, Rachel Keister, Martin John, speech, Donald White-leather and Mary Jane Wood; and Joanne Zimmerman, Jean Dilworth and Ada Zerbs.

Plans have been made for the annual club banquet May 18 and for a new series of one-act plays in which roles will be entirely filled by Freshmen and Sophomores. Marian Messersmith and Richard Butler will direct.

Flood Waters Roll Over River Levees

(By Associated Press)
Muddy waters of the flood-swollen Mississippi river continued their destructive course today. They swirled over levee after levee and threatened others as a small army of men and High school students fought desperately to keep the raging stream within banks.

Flood waters from the Mississippi and three receding tributaries—the Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas rivers—have left over 1,686,400 acres inundated in 113 counties of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. The Red Cross reported.

The Mississippi, gorged by the overflowing Illinois and Missouri rivers, was being battled by well over 10,000 federal and state troops, coast guardsmen, prisoners of war, volunteer workers and High school students.

In some areas officials were directing levee work over walkie-talkie radio sets.

The U. S. Army district engineer's office at St. Louis listed the latest critical areas as Harrisonville and Ivy Landing, Ill., below St. Louis. Additional troops were dispatched to those points early today as well as to Beardstown on the Illinois.

The Mississippi is expected to crest at St. Louis at 38.9 feet late Sunday.

4 DIE WHEN ARMY PLANE HITS HOUSE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 29.—Four or more army aviators were reported killed and two occupants of a house injured today when an army bomber crashed and burned in the residential section of north-east Memphis.

Policeman J. A. Parrish said the plane was flying at an altitude of about 700 feet, apparently in trouble, when a wing lowered and it crashed into a two-story frame house.

German Anti-Invasion Force Reported Ready For Action

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 29.—Berlin dispatches to Stockholm today declared the invasion of western Europe, practically speaking, began a week ago when the Americans and British threw great numbers of reserve air crews and aircraft into the continuing continental air assault.

The Stockholm Tidingens's Berlin correspondent quoted captured Allied fliers as saying they regarded themselves "as invasion troops and the invasion began for them when they went into action."

The dispatch added: "German military circles interpret the fliers' statements as meaning the invasion air force now is actually in the fight."

The Germans announced their anti-invasion command was ready to go into action and simultaneously Nazi occupation authorities in Denmark suspended telephone communication between Copenhagen and Stockholm for the second time in a week.

A Berlin broadcast gave no details concerning the Nazi anti-invasion command, but the Russian news agency Tass quoted Stockholm sources as saying rumors persisted in the German capital that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had replaced 70-year-old Marshal Gen.

Hitler's so-called west wall. Away from a writer of fable and fancy dealing with when, where and the strength with which the Allies will attack, there were the overnight developments.

Eisenhower Tours Fields
Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, making a quick tour of air fields in England, told the fliers that "as much as you have done in the past, more is going to be required of you."

Marshal Petain, in a broadcast from Vichy, tense with an eleventh hour expectancy, urged Frenchmen to "keep a loyal and correct attitude to the occupation troops." He asked particularly that Frenchmen ignore calls to revolt.

West Coast Ports Bombed; Land Sectors Are Reported Quiet

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NAPLES, April 29.—Allied heavy bombers struck at the Italian west-coast ports of Piombino, Orbetello and Santo Stefano yesterday, and other harbors by night, Allied headquarters announced today.

All land sectors were quiet during the day, a communique said. "Medium forces" of heavy bombers raided Orbetello and Santo Stefano, 75 miles northwest of Rome and Piombino, 125 miles northwest of the Italian capital.

Medium bombers, joining in a day of 1,300 sorties, attacked rail communications and bridges, and lighter planes struck supply dumps and gun positions. Eleven Allied planes were lost during the day, and five enemy aircraft were destroyed.

Summarizing three months of operations on the Anzio beachhead, the Allied command announced the total of prisoners taken there now exceeds 4,000.

The summary credited beachhead gunners with 186 out of a total of 426 enemy planes destroyed by Fifth Army anti-aircraft guns since the beginning of the Italian campaign as well as 125 probables. Dawn air raids on the beachhead have been virtually abandoned by the Germans because of severe losses.

Approximately 30 per cent of the raiders were knocked down on one occasion, the announcement said, and at another time the first fire bagged five out of 12 attacking planes.

Township Group Reports 100 Percent Membership
Probate Judge Charles P. Baker, Jr., of Palmetto, president of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks, spoke last night at a meeting of the Columbiana county organization in the Legion home in Lisbon.

Entertainment was provided by the Bell family of Leontina. The county association reported 100 per cent membership in the organization, every township official in Columbiana county now being a member.

Salem Soldier Wins Citation For Having Invented Gun Mount

Mrs. Myrtle Lora of Franklin st. has received a copy of a letter of commendation given her son, Staff Sgt. Robert O. Lora, recently by his commanding general, in recognition of his part in the development of a new type of gun mount now being used effectively by coast artillery units.

Sgt. Lora and Lieut. E. R. Prowell, stationed in the Aleutian Islands with the 91st Ordnance Co., were highly praised for their initiative, resourcefulness and service by commanding officers. The citation read:

"Sgt. Lora and Lieut. Prowell have constructed from salvage and scrap material, a mount for an ex-calibre weapon to be used with the 40 mm. gun. The mount is the first satisfactory one built and is to be used by the coast artillery."

"The two officers developed a highly satisfactory mount, incorporating in it an improved method of firing the weapon, the first one so constructed. This officer and enlisted man also built a 'check' sight, to be employed for training purposes with the 40mm. gun. Because of their cooperation, interest and ingenuity in constructing these devices, Staff Sgt. Lora and Lieut. Prowell are considered worthy of commendation."

The two men received the following letter: "The commanding general is pleased to note evidence of duty will be performed."

PLAN MUSIC WEEK OBSERVANCE HERE

A program by the combined choirs of the city's churches will mark the official opening of National Music week here Sunday afternoon, May 7, in the Methodist church.

The annual observance of the event will continue throughout the week in the churches, schools, clubs and movies. Music clubs are in charge of several public programs which will be given. Mrs. E. E. Dyball is local chairman of the observance.

The concert Sunday afternoon by the choirs will be directed by Walter Regal.

The following night a recital will be given by students of the various music teachers here and on Thursday night Salem High school will present a concert at the High school auditorium.

PROBE BURGLARY AT BOWLING CENTER

Police are investigating a burglary of the Salem Bowling center. E. Pershing st., that occurred sometime Thursday night when thieves entered the Pershing st. entrance and stole a cash register, a cigaret machine and its contents.

Entrance was made by breaking a window near the door and unbolting the latch. Police Chief Ralph Stoffer said. W. L. Adrian, operator of the center, placed the loss at about $300.

He said the amount was an advance on the total sum, which as yet is undetermined.

Salem High Musicians Win Honors In Festival

A capacity audience, including many from Salem, heard the musical program at the second annual Mt. Union college music festival last night at the college, in which 30 Salem High students participated.

More than 600 young musicians from surrounding towns were heard in the band, orchestra and chorus divisions. Much larger participation and greater attendance marked the event.

Festival Band Director Chester M. Bratigam reported that Salem musicians won many first chair positions in band and orchestra in try-outs for the final program.

LIMITS OF AUTHORITY

The ultimate issue raised in the Montgomery Ward & Co. affair is over the limits of executive authority. Evidently, the company chairman, Sewell Avery, believes he can make a case for his opinion that President Roosevelt's orders, reaching a climax in seizure of the company's Chicago properties, are improper. Just as evidently, the government believes it can make a case against the policy of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Atty. Gen. Biddle, whose job is to rationalize what the government seeks to do, has claimed authority to seize the properties as "a step to prevent nationwide labor disturbances that threaten to interfere seriously with the conduct of the war."

Mr. Biddle's interpretation of presidential authority is so inclusive that it suggests a precedent whereby any business having a labor disturbance could be seized. The merit of the dispute and the nature of the business affected, whether engaged or not engaged directly in war production, apparently would be inconsequential.

The government, of course, has won the first round; it always does. It has seized the properties. It has placed its agents in control. It has put its prestige and its dignity behind the forcible election of Mr. Avery, the symbolic trustee of the property interests involved. It has called the whole country's attention to what it obviously regards as a demonstration of its authority. The legal outcome of the affair is indeterminate, a matter still to be settled, depending on how far the company wants to go in defense of its position and how far it thinks it can afford to go; one round does not finish such a battle unless it turns out that Montgomery Ward & Co. is unable or unwilling to keep on fighting.

The issue is similarly undecided in public opinion. The labor dispute which precipitated the seizure of the properties seems to be one matter, and the seizure itself—under Atty. Gen. Biddle's rationalization—seems to be another. Each entails difficult decisions. The publicity which has developed, will have the immediate effect of making the nation more acutely aware than ever before of the implications of the new instruments of public power as devised and used by the Roosevelt administration, first in the name of the depression emergency, now in the name of the war emergency.

THAT SETTLES THAT

"There is not the slightest question of any cession of British territories, not the slightest," declares Prime Minister Churchill in the house of commons, answering a question about British bases leased to the United States—and that settles that.

Mr. Churchill is only confirming what he said previously—that he did not become prime minister to dispose of British property. His position is clear, which is the way it should be. It might be vastly more expedient for him to pussyfoot on these matters, but he is saving a lot of time and confusion by saying what is on his mind. He is saying it not only in England, but in the United States.

There will continue to be in this country, in the routine of discussion both inside and outside of congress, a certain amount of talk about British policy. There are some Americans who claim to know what is proper for the British government; just as there are some Britons who have ideas about the United States. But thanks to Mr. Churchill, it is plain to the Americans who have ideas about his job that he, as the responsible party, intends to run Britain to suit his own countrymen. To the extent that they can take the hint and to the extent that the British understand that the same rule applies in reverse, international relations between the United States and Great Britain will have a better chance to get stabilized on a basis of mutual respect. They would have a better chance between all governments if they could be put on that basis.

THE MILITARY VOTER'S OBLIGATION

By the terms of the service voting bill prepared for Ohio, applications for ballots to be mailed to service voters may be made by these persons:

"Spouse, father, mother, brother or sister of the whole blood or half blood, son, daughter, adopting parent, adopted child, step-parent, step-child, uncle, aunt, nephew or niece."

The applications must bear the full name of the person for whom ballots are requested, a statement covering the nature of the person's service, a statement that the person has residence in the county where the application is filed and information concerning the precinct in which it is located, a statement of relationship, the address to which the ballot is to be mailed and the name and address of the person making the application.

This arrangement is in addition, of course, to applications from the service voters themselves, but it seems likely the great majority of them will choose the easier method of having a relative take care of the matter. It makes the process as painless as it possibly could be made. In effect, it reduces the military voter's obligation to the simple duty of marking his ballot when he receives it and returning it to the election board, which is a comprehensive rebuttal to the claim that the states would be unable to devise any way to let their voters exercise their franchise in 1944 and that therefore the federal government would have to do the whole job for them—its own way.

Language originated before philosophy, and that is what is the matter with philosophy—G. C. Lichtenberg, 1799.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds auguries of expansive and extravagant impulses, and as long as these urges are restricted to charities, church and fraternal good will, all may be well. Sign all writings with an eye to fraud, duplicity and refrain from snap judgments and any sort of unstudied speculation.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a pleasant and prosperous year with opportunities for fair success, as the energies are quickened and the inclinations expansive and toward large ambitions. However there may be danger of over-doing in this latter direction, and also speculation, taking long chances and too swift grasp of alluring gambles may be unprofitable. Read documents with precaution. There are romantic angles to prove compensatory.

A child born on this day may be good natured, expansive and have fine ambitions, but its tendency to speculate or gamble may be its undoing.

For Monday, May 1

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a particularly active, progressive and pleasant day, with much stirring in both business and personal interests. Although the accent seems to be on the romantic, sentimental, social or domestic vocations or avocations, yet there is a solidifying and stabilizing force making for endurance and security in whatever direction the objectives may lie.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the affairs may be happily placed upon a firm, enduring and secure basis, with accumulations and investments sound and sensible, with little risk. The emphasis, however, is on domestic, social and affectional affairs and functions, with romance, good luck and long promise of happiness.

A child born on this day may have many artistic, social and domestic abilities and graces, and should enjoy a life of happiness and usefulness as well, with sound and deep-rooted feelings and thoughts.

X-Ray of Wide Value As Aid To Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE DISCOVERY of the X-ray in 1895 was the last great advance in medical science. Every medical advance made in the twentieth century has been a projection or development of a medical discovery made previously.

The great discoveries of this century have been insulin for diabetes, Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

betes; liver for anemia; the sulfa drugs, penicillin and arphenamine for infections; dairy inspection and clean milk for infant feeding; the vitamins in nutrition; vaccination against typhoid, diphtheria, typhus, whooping cough and scarlet fever; psychoanalysts for the neuroses; and in the field of diagnosis blood chemistry, the electric wave recorder (electrocardiograph) in heart disorders, the Wassermann test, and all of these had been suggested or tried out, had their roots in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

The X-ray, however, was absolutely new, sui generis, a perfectly fresh phenomenon, springing like Venus from the head of Jove, without any real predecessor or parentage. It has penetrated into every field of diagnosis. Starting out haltingly, used only to show the outline of bones and hence used only to show fractures, it now operates in every field of medical practice, so that the X-ray specialist in a hospital heads a separate department of his own. He cannot belong to either he department of surgery or medicine or children or obstetrics because he serves and gives advice to all of them.

X-ray In Diagnosis

In reviewing what the X-ray can do in diagnosis it is well to understand what it cannot do. Someone wrote me the other day and asked whether the X-ray would show a heart murmur. No, it will not, because a murmur is a sound and the X-ray shows differences in density evident to sight, not sounds.

We have another instrument, the stethoscope, which is equally as wonderful as the X-ray if medical men will take the trouble to learn to use it, which reveals sounds, including heart murmurs.

The stethoscope also shows up asthma in the lungs which the X-ray does not because the signs of asthma are entirely sounds. Pneumonia shows up on the X-ray, but is better detected with the stethoscope.

One of my readers asks me if there isn't some other way to tell appendicitis besides feeling the abdomen. If she means the X-ray, no, there isn't. Principally because in face of the possibility of appendicitis it is dangerous to give anything by mouth and the X-ray shows nothing about the intestines unless a barium meal is swallowed. Besides palpation of the abdomen, if done skillfully, is one of the finest and most informative pieces of technique in the diagnostician's bag.

Positive Accomplishments of the X-ray in diagnosis make themselves very evident as one reviews such a recent modern book as Rieker's Outline of Roentgen Diagnosis. Its values may be ranked thus:

In fractures of the bones and dislocations of the joints the X-ray is indispensable. In bone disease, such as tuberculosis, purulent infection or tumor, it is the best means of diagnosis.

In tuberculosis of the lung its decision is final. In heart disease it is sometimes helpful, but not necessary.

In stomach and intestinal disease it is valuable in all cases almost indispensable in the diagnosis of cancer.

In kidney disease with the help of dyes—very valuable.

In gallstones and gallbladder disease—indispensable.

In skull disease, brain tumor, chronic nose infection and ear disease—sometimes valuable, sometimes worthless.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining Weight," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

THE RED CARNATION by BURTON STEVENSON

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

Schneider sat looking at him for a moment. "Oh, now I get it!" he cried. "Now I understand. I'm the one who is being framed. And the woman is ready to come forward! All right, let her come forward! Who is she?" His smoldering gaze passed from one to the other and finally came to rest on the girl. She was staring back at him, her face livid. "What did you say this woman's name is? Scott?"

"Why, I know who she is—she's Fortunio Scott's sister."

The girl was on her feet, her face like death. "That is true, Herschel Schneider," she said hoarsely. "I am Carmelita Scott. You sent my brother to the chair with your lies, and I'm going to send you."

She had snapped her handbag open and was fumbling blindly in it.

"Sit down, Miss," broke in Duffy sharply, his face very grim. "Give me that bag." He snatched it from her and glanced into it, and laid it on the desk.

"There's no weapon there," she said with emphasis. "I was looking for my handkerchief. May I have it, please?" Duffy passed it to her. "What I have been telling you is true," she went on after a moment. "That man has murdered three men!"

"Nonsense! Utter rot!" remarked Schneider wearily. "Let's finish this. The girl's crazy. Give Duffy that letter, please."

Metcalf drew a letter from his pocket and handed it to the detective.

"What's this?" Duffy asked. "A letter from my brother," Metcalf answered, "which I received just this morning. I showed it to Mr. Schneider and he suggested that I bring it along this afternoon. And I want to say that I resent all this talk. That girl isn't to be trusted. I fired her Saturday because I found her prying into things which were none of her business. It is my belief that she is the one who stole those records for McKibben."

"Wait a minute," Duffy broke in. "One thing at a time. Suppose we first find out what this letter is." He looked at the envelope. "Addressed to Mr. Myron Metcalf, Plainville, Connecticut. That's you, is it?"

"Yes, that's me," said Metcalf. "Stamped at the West Sixty-ninth Street substation at nine o'clock Friday morning. Received at Plainville at five o'clock Friday afternoon. Redirected to you at the Central Park West address and received today."

"All right," said Duffy, and slipped the letter out of its envelope and opened it, holding it carefully by the edges. "Written with pen and ink on one of Dr. Metcalf's letter-heads," he went on. "Now let's see what it says."

"Dear Myron," he read. "If there is ever any question as to why I killed John McKibben, I want it understood that it was because he was stealing dictograph records from my cabinet and using them to blackmail my patients. He was an utter scoundrel and I have no regrets."

"Jerome Metcalf."

There was a moment's dazed silence. "Do you recognize the writing, Mr. Metcalf?" Duffy asked at last. "Certainly. It's my brother's. My belief is that he wrote it Thursday night just before he shot himself and dropped it in the mail chute at his apartment house."

"How about you, Miss Scott?" She came forward slowly, her face like death, and looked closely at the letter.

"Yes," she said at last, almost in a whisper, "that is Dr. Metcalf's writing."

"I'll check it, of course," declared Duffy, as he slipped the letter back into its envelope. "But I guess that settles it."

Herschel Schneider yawned slightly and settled back in his chair with a smile of satisfaction which he made no effort to conceal.

Tony Bigelow felt himself flushing. He should have seen at once how silly it was to suppose that a man as clever as the astute Schneider...

The columnist glanced sharply at the lawyer, but the latter did not meet his eyes. He was gazing sardonically at Carmelita Scott, who sat crouched in her chair, crushed. As she caught his look, she jerked herself rigidly erect and stared back at him.

It was Schneider who looked away first, turning to Duffy, who was tapping absently on his desk, his face a blank.

"You might find it worth while Jim, to look into the suggestion I made a while ago," the lawyer remarked lazily.

"Which suggestion?" Duffy asked. "About the young lady yonder, who is so anxious to send me to the chair. It's evident from that letter, Schneider went on, "that Metcalf knew McKibben had been stealing his records, but I don't see how he could have done it without some added dryly."

"They were not stolen," Tony put in. "They were duplicated. Metcalf found the originals all in place when he got them out and destroyed them."

"How do you know that?" Schneider asked. "Oh, I suppose this girl told you," he went on, as Tony hesitated, "so it may or may not be true. But it makes no difference. My suggestion is that the one person in the world who had every opportunity to juggle with those records was Metcalf's secretary."

Duffy glanced in the girl's direction. Her eyes had not wavered from Schneider.

"And her history certainly isn't above reproach," the lawyer added. "Have you taken her fingerprints?"

"Of course."

"Did you find any of her prints on the dictograph, or on the steel cabinet Metcalf kept his records in?"

"Yes, as well as around the office generally. Though that's natural enough."

"But you didn't take the trouble to look through her room, wherever it is?"

The detective made no comment. "Well, think it over," said Schneider with a little sneer. "Maybe now that you know who she is, you'll decide to search the place, but don't let her get their first, or you won't find anything. When I think of the way you tried to drag me into this, when you had her right under your nose, it makes me a little mad. It looks like you had it in for me."

"I wouldn't put anything past you, Schneider," reported Duffy coldly, "but as I told Tony, I don't believe you would kill anybody yourself. You'd probably get one of your clients to do it."

"And make monkeys of the police again—sure," Schneider assented. "Meanwhile, Mr. Metcalf is waiting to take away that property of his which you are illegally holding."

"All right, Herschel," agreed Duffy amiably enough, though there was a warning glint in his eyes. "I told you I would turn them over to you at three o'clock. We've got twenty minutes yet," he added with a glance at his watch, "plenty of time for a little experiment we want to do with the dictograph."

"What sort of experiment?" Schneider demanded.

"You'll see," said Duffy, and pressed a button on his desk.

"Wait a minute," Schneider broke in. "We object to any experiments with that dictograph."

"Object if you want to," said Duffy bluntly. "If you want the stuff back before three o'clock, go ahead and start replevin proceedings."

Schneider's face was dark and his lids were half-lowered again. The satisfied smile had disappeared.

"At least we have the right to know what the experiment is," he said.

"Oh, all right," Duffy agreed. "I don't mind telling you. When we tested the machine Thursday night, we found a record in it which didn't come out very clearly, so we got this man from the dictograph company to rig up an amplifier."

"What sort of record is it?" asked the lawyer. "Another confession?"

"I can't say as yet," Duffy answered. "The record is in the machine," he added to the expert. "Go ahead and do your stuff."

The man opened the reproducer to make sure the record was in place. Then he turned a switch. There were two loud clicks.

"Oh, wait, wait!" cried Miss Scott, and started from her seat, then sank back again, her hand over her mouth, her face crimson.

"Turn it off!" snapped Duffy. "Now, what is it, Miss Scott?"

"Nothing, nothing," murmured the girl hoarsely. "I didn't mean to speak, I'm sorry."

Duffy looked at her suspiciously for a moment, then signed to the man to go ahead. For a few seconds there was silence, then the sound of a drawer opening, a soft swishing, a ratchet working against something. The expert snapped off the switch.

"Somebody has opened a drawer," he said, "got a sheet of paper out of it, and put it in a typewriter. Now listen—" and he turned the switch on again.

Almost at once there came a slow uneven tapping, then after a moment the carriage was pulled back, then more tapping.

Navy Is Against Consolidation Plan

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Navy today flatly opposed immediate action to consolidate the Army, Navy and Air forces into a single department of war and urged Congress to give careful study to proposals for post-war consolidation.

Its views, given to the house committee on post-war military policy, were stated by Undersecretary James Forrestal in these words:

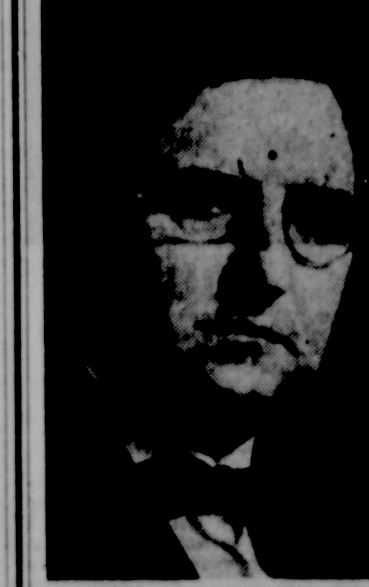

"The position of the Navy is that the whole question of military organization deserves and should receive a most objective and thorough study. It believes the question should be approached by detailed examination with the conclusion to be reached at the end of such an examination rather than acting upon the assumption that the case is already established. I don't believe this."

Earlier this week War Secretary Stimson endorsed the creation of a single department for the armed forces—the actual consolidation to be put off until after the war—and recommended prompt congressional approval of the principle of consolidation.

In the last seven years while China has been at war, the number of Chinese college students has increased from 49,000 to 60,000.

Forest fires burn enough timber each year to build 2,000 mine-sweepers or 215,000 five-room houses.

FOR . . . STATE SENATOR

DR. JOSEPH T. WILLIAMSON

The acute shortage of gasoline materially contributes to my inability to personally contact all the Democratic Primary Voters of this 20-22nd Senatorial District, but I assure you that if I am nominated and elected to the position of State Senator, I will exert my greatest effort to prevent the present practice of placing the Sales Tax Income in the State General Fund, from which a sufficient amount for the support of the Schools and Municipalities is not appropriated for their proper maintenance—the excess amount going into the State Surplus Fund that is said now to probably equal or exceed $100,000,000.00.

This District up to the first of this year has contributed approximately $925,000.00 to this Surplus Fund—Columbiana County $221,000.00; Jefferson County $321,000.00; Harrison County, $190,000.00; and Belmont County $193,000.00. All of this Fund having been accumulated while the State Government was spending more money per year than ever before in its history, $14,578,469.99 more spent in 1942 than was spent in 1941, and $281,874,537.79 more spent during the first four years of the Bricker Administration than was spent during the four preceding years, which proves that there was very little economy practiced, all of this extravagance going on when very little Public Improvements were being made.

This seemingly Paradox is readily explained by the aforementioned practice of placing all the Sales Tax Income in the General Fund and then appropriating only a portion of it for the Schools and Municipalities, making it absolutely necessary for practically all taxing districts of the State to vote extra taxes on themselves for Local Administration.

REMEDI—Place all the Sales Tax Income where it was originally intended, for the support of the Schools and Municipalities, thereby eliminating the necessity of voting extra taxes on ourselves for Local Administration Purposes.

TRIMMING DETAILS GIVE INTEREST TO NEW FROCKS

The spring and summer collection of one famous American designer, late of Paris, emphasizes basic simplicity as the predominant note in her dresses. Simple dresses sometimes depend on their beauty for dressmaker details reminiscent of French handwork. Mainbocher makes his skirts a little shorter for street wear, evening dresses having either long or short skirts, according to the wearer's wishes. There is a great deal of interest at the neckline line. The flowered print shown above is in navy and white on black. It has a draped neckline that forms the sleeve and falls softly over the bosom. The cockade topknot is of navy grosgrain with small veil. The evening dress is made of black silk net with wide black satin ribbon bands criss-crossing over shoulders and bodice, descending to the hem of the skirt. The cape has two flounces. The suit, right, is light gray flannel with scalloped edged pockets. With it is worn a white silk blouse with draped neckline. On one shoulder is a corsage of white violets, and the hat is made of matching violets. (International)

Mrs. Berger Honored At Friday Party

Miss Rose Marie Bates was hostess at her home on the Goshen rd., last night at a kitchen shower honoring Mrs. Helen Berger, the former Miss Charlotte Griffith of Damascus, whose wedding was a recent event.

Isolation of Erie Farce, Mueller Says

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, April 29.—Merrill Mueller, NBC correspondent in London, today declared he recently had crossed the border from northern Ireland into Eire and that the reported isolation of the Irish state is "a farce."

Asserting it is extremely difficult to travel to the island, he said it is not difficult to cross the border between northern and southern Ireland as he did by taking "the by-lanes and back roads, not often patrolled."

"Thus Eire is not isolated completely," he said in the broadcast. "There are still channels of information open to the Japanese and German legations in Dublin."

"In fact," he continued, "the secretary is so lax that a first-rate smuggling racket is blossoming. Black market operators offer up to $200 per trip to anyone who will drive a loaded truck across the border either way."

Mueller will be remembered as one of the recent Salem Town Hall speakers. He has since returned to England for further war assignments.

Soldiers Face Hanging

U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL ON SCENE AT WARD CO.

U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL FRANCIS BIDDLE himself is on the scene at the Montgomery Ward & Co. plants in Chicago to take personal charge of the impending court battle which looms following government seizure of the huge mail order house. A detachment of military police took over the company after Sewell L. Avery, chairman of the board, refused to turn over the plants to Ugo Carusi, the attorney general's executive assistant, and Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce. Carusi and military police are shown above as they entered the main offices of the company. The conflict between the government and the Ward company was brought on by Avery's repeated refusal to extend the company's contract with the Mail Order Employees union which expired last December, as ordered by the War Labor Board. Avery returned the next day and was forcibly ejected. (International)

HILLIARD MARKET FACES OPA CHARGE

The Office of Price administration filed suit yesterday in United States District court at Cleveland to suspend the license of William J. Hilliard, proprietor of Hilliard's market, 311 S. Broadway.

The OPA petition charges that Hilliard sold and offered for sale a list of 43 food items at prices ranging from 1 to 9 cents above ceilings.

Items allegedly offered for sale at over ceiling prices included pork chops, cereals, fruit juices, coffee, gelatin, shortening, soap, sugar, cheese and tuna fish. OPA seeks to have Hilliard's license suspended for a period up to a year.

Recently, recalling his service in those wars, he remarked to friends: "This is the first war I didn't enter as a buck private."

As a newspaperman he carried his fighting ability into the editorial field and was one of the earliest proponents of a giant navy—a fleet large enough to fight in both the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans.

He saw that aim accomplished as secretary of the navy. When he and Secretary of War Stimson, both Republicans, became members of President Roosevelt's cabinet, the navy had 385 combat ships.

Now, the fleet is the largest in world history, comprising an additional nine battleships, 19 first-line aircraft carriers and more than 50 escort carriers, a score of cruisers, more than 500 destroyers and destroyer escorts, more than 100 submarines, and thousands of landing craft, and smaller ships of all types.

ORDNANCE OUTPUT FOR QUARTER HIGH
CLEVELAND, April 29.—Contractors in the Cleveland ordnance district produced approximately $400,000,000 worth of finished war material in 1944's first quarter, Col. H. M. Reddall, in charge of the district, announced today.

While the reports noted that ordnance production during the first quarter of this year was slightly below the same period last year, Col. Reddall declared "present indications are that the second and third quarters of this year will bring a demand for an increase in spare parts, heavy trucks, automotive power units, heavy artillery and ammunition."

Of the total production figure, $212,600,000 represented disbursements to prime contractors throughout the district, covering 55 Ohio counties and three in Pennsylvania. The balance covered value of material processed and delivered under inspection regulations from other ordnance districts.

ANTI-INVASION

official calls were being accepted this morning as the German occupying forces in Denmark suspended telephone communications between Stockholm and Copenhagen.

Danes who reached Sweden after the Nazis isolated Denmark Monday at the beginning of a campaign to stamp out underground activities were quoted by the newspaper Dagens Nyheter as saying 40,000 Danes were armed and ready to help Allied invasion forces.

There was no satisfactory explanation as to why telephone service had been interrupted again.

A new guess concerning the hour of invasion came from Arriba, Generalissimo Franco's mouthpiece in Madrid. It picked 4:41 a. m. today as its first choice, but said, if the attack did not come, then the Germans should be ready at 4:39 a. m. Sunday.

A Swedish army strategist fixed the probable strength of British-American assault forces at 200 divisions against a German land force of about 40 divisions.

Munitions Production Gained During March
WASHINGTON, April 29.—Munitions production during March rose three per cent above the February level. War Production Chairman Donald M. Nelson said today but failed by 2 per cent to meet the overall output schedule, pegged to a 25 per cent increase by the end of the year.

Nelson said the major war production problem during the next few months will be to keep the level of actual output abreast of the increasing needs of the armed forces.

Flashes Of Life

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, April 29.—Helen Murphy, 19, of New Lexington, was "just locking" in a department store here recently when she saw a piano shed like to play. And so she played, beating out boogie and tinkling romantic tunes. The manager came running—with a talent scout—and the surprised girl now is booked as the piano queen of a slick night club.

ZANESVILLE—The mother of a schoolboy who had been absent from a rural school near here wrote the following excuse to the teacher:

"Please excuse Johnny for being absent Monday, April 17. It was necessary for him to see his girl's father off to the service."

Johnny is 14.

MARION—During rush hour a local bus driver finally got the patrons to move to the rear by shouting, "please move back, folks, that end is going to come right along too!"

FINDLAY—Mrs. Sarah Stewart celebrated her 101st birthday April 22 by quilting her 100th quilt. Quilting is a recent hobby of the elderly woman, who "picked it up" at the age of 90.

COLUMBUS—Soldiers at Lockbourne army air base here were warned recently to stop trying to keep up morale by purchasing chewing gum at the post exchange for civilians.

LORAIN—Local USO officials say the average serviceman wants a variety of diversions open to him at the canteens, but he dislikes being regimented, preferring to "take 'em or leave 'em" as the fancy strikes him. He likes to see many girls in pretty dresses at the dances, but he doesn't always like to dance with them—often preferring just to watch.

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE
—Local Boy Scouts did such a thorough job of picking up bundles of waste paper which citizens placed on front porches in a recent scrap drive they picked up $15 worth of laundry neatly packaged.

The good-deed-doers raced to correct their error, clambered over 20 tons of paper, but it remained the case of the missing laundry.

Restaurateurs Given New Type Table Napkin
BOSTON, April 29.—A new type table napkin designed to replace the kind that always is slithering off laps onto the floor now is on display at the New England hotel and restaurant industries exposition.

Termed a "Pakin" by inventor Willard Davis, managing editor of the Hotel and Restaurant News, it consists of a standard dinner napkin with a button-hole in one corner, permitting it to be attached to the diner's coat or vest.

"Ladies can use it, too," the inventor said, "even with formal dress, if they wear a pin or clip."

Coast Guard Officers Called To Testify In Two Ship Collisions

(By Associated Press)

ASHTABULA, April 29.—Officers and crewmen of the Great Lakes freighter James H. Reed, which sank after a dawn collision with another freighter Thursday, have been summoned before a U. S. Coast guard board of inquiry meeting behind closed doors.

Commander Earl B. Hull, marine inspection officer for the Cleveland Coast guard district, and his fellow officers, Lt. Com. David T. Smith of Washington and Lt. Com. William T. Smith of Buffalo, decided on the closed investigation because officials of one of the vessel-operating companies were unable to be present.

The Reed, operated by Pickands, Mather and Co. for the Interlake Steamship Co., sank in five minutes after colliding with the Canadian Steamship lines' Ashcroft, the Reed's captain, Bert Brightstone, reported. At least 10 lives were lost, and two persons still are unaccounted for.

Members of the Reed's crew described their experiences in the icy water during the half-hour in which rescue was effected. Marion Godschalk, 19, of Three Rivers, Mich., a deckhand, told how the ship's cook died with his wife, Camille, assistant cook, who couldn't swim. "She was afraid to go overboard, so he stayed with her," Godschalk declared. "His arm was around her as they both drowned. They were still aboard ship when I jumped into the water—and the boat was going down then."

The bodies of the cook and his wife will be returned to Toledo together.

A second Coast guard board of inquiry has opened an investigation of a collision between the Columbia Transportation Co.'s Frank Vigor, which sank, and the Philip Minch of the Kinsman Transit Co. All crew members of the Vigor were rescued by the Minch after the two freighters collided in Pelee passage on the Canadian side of Lake Erie.

Soldier Vote Bill Signed By Bricker

COLUMBUS, April 29.—Signed by Gov. John W. Bricker, Ohio's soldier vote act makes the full May 7 ballot available to all Ohioans in the armed forces and those of voting age in affiliated services.

The governor signed the emergency legislation into law yesterday soon after the administration-sponsored special session, which passed it unanimously, adjourned sine die.

The adjournment terminated one of the shortest sessions on record. The legislature met Wednesday night for the specific purpose of acting on the soldier vote bill and quit less than 48 hours later.

The Republican majority obtained enactment without material changes from a draft prepared by a special legislative committee which completely ignored the federal ballot approved by Congress.

The federal ballot will have blank spaces for soldiers to write in their

A futile attempt was made by organized labor groups to include legislation of the federal ballot for Ohio soldiers, but they were outvoted. Under the new law, any Ohio soldier voting the federal ballot will lose his vote, since it cannot be accepted.

The new Ohio law is in effect only for the November election, and dies the day after election.

St. Louis Browns Seek 10th Straight Opening Victory Today

UP TO CHISOX TO PREVENT IT

Seven of Wins Credited To Manager Luke Sewell's Mound Staff

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's up to the Chicago White Sox today to stop the St. Louis Browns' bid for a new modern big league record of 10 consecutive games won at the start of a season.

Since opening day, Manager Luke Sewell has been getting a superior grade of pitching in nine successive wins with seven complete games credited to his Mound Staff. Only Cincinnati, with seven finishers in eight starters, can top that mark.

Jack Kramer, who turned back the Sox with four hits yesterday in the Browns' 3-1 victory, had to be relieved opening day after pitching 8 2/3 innings. Late Sunday Tex Shirley was removed for a pinch-hitter after seven frames.

Bill McKeech's Cincinnati hurlers have had relief only once, and that wasn't the pitcher's fault. Cuban Tom De La Cruz had allowed only four hits in eight innings but was lifted for a pinch-hitter to give the Reds' bullpen its only action.

Brings Reds Through
Ed Heusser is Cincinnati's latest addition to the "nine-inning pitchers" club. He joined yesterday by sprinkling seven Pittsburgh hits along the route in a 2-0 triumph. Bucky Walters and Elmer Riddle each have two complete games, Clyde Shoun and De La Cruz one apiece.

Rookie Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants failed to go all the way for the first time yesterday but got credit for his third victory as the Giants topped Brooklyn, 6-4. When Voiselle weakened, Harry Feldman stepped to the hill with two on and nobody out and retired the side on five pitched balls. Homers by Patcher Les Webber and Homer Schultz of the Dodgers were included in the losers' 12-hit total.

Taking inspiration from Jim Tobin's heroic no-hitter, Nate Andrews took charge of the Phillies in tossing the Boston Braves to a 2-1 edge in 11 innings. Andrews had a shutout ruined in the ninth on Ford Mullen's single, but came up with his first decision in the second overtime when Connie Ryan singled, moved up on two sacrifices and scored on Butch Nieman's fly.

While the Browns were stealing the big type away from the rest of the American league, a 16-inning affair, won by the A's, 7-5. Woody Wheaton went hitless in seven times at bat until he drove home the deciding scores with a single. Frankie Hayes bashed two homers to assume the individual lead with a total of three.

Mel Harder is within two victories of his goal of 200 major league wins after allowing 10 Detroit hits in a 2-1 Cleveland victory.

New York and Washington in the American and St. Louis and Chicago in the National were not scheduled.

50 Schools Compete In Wesleyan Relays

(By Associated Press)

DELAWARE, April 29.—The first partial preview of Ohio's 1944 high school track and field championship competition opens today on Ohio Wesleyan university's athletic field.

More than 50 schools were expected to have entries in the 13th annual Ohio Wesleyan High school relays, among them several hoped to figure prominently when the Ohio High school athletic association gets around to determining the state champions late next month.

Principal interest, of course, centered around Cleveland East tech which has held a corner on the schoolboy track market for longer than its foes care to recall. The Clevelanders won the Class A title in the Ohio Wesleyan meet last year and were back today to defend their crown.

New London, Class B champion, also returned to bid for the laurels anew.

Picard Certain He Can Win Over All Of Present Field

By TOM SHRIVEN

HARLEBURG.—After 15 years of campaigning over the nation's golf links lanky Henry Picard has his goal set on another national title. "Maybe it's the air around this part of the country," laughs Picard as he settles down in his new berth as head pro at fashionable Harleburg Country club, "but it was while I was pro at Hershey that I really played my best golf."

"Now this I am back in the same locality, I think I can do it again," he adds.

Picard won the National P.G.A. title in 1939 while pro at Hershey Country club, just 14 miles east of here. Then he left for Twin Hills Country club at Oklahoma City, and later disappeared from the golf picture.

The nationally known star is dreaming of a return to golf's pin-nacle and working hard at it.

"I can beat most of the boys who are winning titles today," says Picard. "Without trying to detract from their play of the winter I know that I can hold my own with Jug McSpaden, Byron Nelson, or Craig Wood."

PENSIVE TO RUN IN CHESAPEAKE

Nine Other Kentucky Derby Hopes Race At Pimlico Today

(By Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, April 29.—Calumet Farm's Pensive, one of the secondary choices for next Saturday's Kentucky Derby, met his most important test of the season today as he faced nine other three-year-olds in the $25,000-added Chesapeake stakes at Pimlico.

The son of Hyperion, which never quite came up to expectations last year, was named to start in the 24th running of the traditional, Havre De Grace derby test against his lily stablemate Twilight Year, and such colts as Mrs. Ella K. Bryson's Director J. E. and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Styline.

All three were regarded as likely Churchill Downs starters with their efforts today having an important bearing on their chances. The Chesapeake lost some interest yesterday when Col. C. V. Whitney's Pika Gin, winter book Derby choice, pulled up bleeding from a workout. He was not expected to start in the bluegrass classic, and also may be declared out of the Prekness.

Early wagers favored the Calumet pair, largely on Pensive's showing this season, which includes victories in three of six starts and one over older horses in the Rowe Memorial handicap.

Other starters given a chance to win the major share of the purse, which will total $25,000 if all ten go to the post, were Mrs. Roy Caruthers' Jimmie, Mrs. A. J. Abel's Gramps Image and Bobson Stable's Clay Bl. All are possible Derby starters.

Regarded as distinct outsiders were Philip Godfrey's Come Now, W. L. Frank's Declared and Max Hirsch's Third Trial.

Director J. E. the Flamingo favorite who finished fifth, was second choice in early wagers with Styline third.

The latter colt, a son of Equestrian, finished second to the Derby favorite Stir Up in the first division of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica a week ago.

Picard has already made some plans for the coming season and will definitely play in the Hale America tournament, successor to the National Open, at Chicago.

"I stopped off in Chicago on the way here from Oklahoma, and filed an entry," says the lanky pro. "Maybe I can make arrangements to stay away from here long enough to play in George May's invitation while I am on there."

Asked about the 1944 P.G.A. at Spokane a wistful look crept over his face before he said, "It seems like a long way to go to play golf, especially in these times, but maybe I will be there."

Other tournaments on his tentative schedule include the $10,000 St. Paul Open, a new $10,000 Open at Milwaukee, and the Red Cross matches—if he gets an invitation from Capt. Walter Hagen.

During his long career Picard has won his share of big tournaments. While at Charleston, S. C., before coming to Hershey, he won the Charleston Open twice. He also has two triumphs chalked up in the North-South Open at Pinehurst and twice carried off the Hershey Open.

Next to his victory in the P. G. A., he regards his triumph in the masters tournament as his finest achievement. He won that event with a 72-hole score of 286.

That was in the spring of 1940, and with the P. G. A. of that year scheduled for his own Hershey links it seemed that Picard would be the first pro in a long span of years to repeat in the professional classic. But Gene Sarazen beat him in a thrilling match and Byron Nelson went on to win the title.

Coaches Ask Return Of Spring Football

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, April 29.—The Ohio High school Football Coaches association reversed its field last night by voting to repeal a ban on spring grid practice.

The vote, reported after the annual banquet of the Ohio State football clinic, was 162 favoring spring practice to 42 opposed.

The coaches last year vote, by a narrow margin, to ban spring drills and High school principals later sanctioned the action, making it "law."

The present coaches' action will be submitted to the Ohio High School Athletic association board, which in turn is expected to submit it to the principals for final decision.

The grid mentors elected Jack Mollenkopf of Toledo Waite as president to succeed Ralph Webster of Columbus East High, and Carlton Smith of Bexley as vice president to replace Mike Hagely of Columbus North.

A secretary-treasurer and district board members will be chosen today.

DISTRICT, COUNTY TRACK HONORS ARE SOUGHT BY SALEM

Results of Uhrichsville Meet Today May Foretell Future Events

By entering Salem's track team in the difficult Uhrichsville relays this afternoon, Coach Fred Cope is not only giving his charges valuable experience but may well be giving local followers a true preview of what may be expected from the Quakers in both the county and district meets this month.

The way the Salem track schedule has read since its compilation last month the Quakers weren't slated for any competition tougher than dual affairs until they went into their two all-important events.

The district meet on May 20 and the county meet, the date of which hasn't been definitely settled. Now that Salem will vie in a meet Cope against not just one, but probably 14 other schools, a much better picture can be arranged on their chances in the other two large events.

Struthers Here Tuesday

Although predictions can't mean much this early, Salem right now is rated in most quarters as odds-on favorites to cop the county title.

Looking over the slate, East Palestine, last year's champs, haven't too much to offer against the Quakers. The Bulldogs have dropped a meet to Struthers, who in turn were beaten by Boardman. Salem had little trouble with Boardman and shouldn't have much trouble with Struthers here Tuesday.

Other county competition doesn't appear too stiff as East Liverpool, second in the county affair in 1943, didn't even enter the race in a meet with East Palestine this week. Evidently the best East Liverpool can offer is Speedster Henry Pack, who doesn't do the dashes or field events in nearly the time or style that Cope's Charlie Dunlap does.

Columbiana High, sometimes plenty strong in track, still remains a question mark, though no exceptional times or distances have come from there so far.

So, considering all the facts and guesses, the outcome of the Quaker trip today will mean a lot to Salem's chances in their two big events. If the locals win the meet, which isn't an impossibility by a long shot, or even show up well against that competition, a lot can be expected from them later on.

Townsend Reports Crowds Larger at Cage Tourneys

COLUMBUS, April 29.—High school basketball tournaments in Ohio attracted 493,027 spectators this season for a 39 per cent increase over last year's attendance, Commissioner H. R. Townsend of the Ohio High School Athletic association reported today.

Gate receipts of the season's 130 tournaments were $219,400.45, a 43 per cent increase over last year, Townsend added.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The Dodgers have figured in four of the last six National league no-hit games and only on the winning side once.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 29.—A post-war world court, backed by stiff military power to enforce international law and punish aggressors, was proposed today on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Austin, Vermont Republican, said he was convinced peace could not be maintained "by negotiation alone."

Republicans in Congress indicated they were wholly in support of his suggestion.

Austin, addressing the international law section of the American Bar association meeting here, urged American participation in an international organization of nations to establish a universal code of conduct—and then enforce those rules.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) told the lawyers last night that if a Republican were elected president the United States would "vigorously protect essential and legitimate American self-interest precisely as Mr. Churchill repeatedly asserts his vigorous purpose is to protect British self-interest." His declaration was in response to questions the London Daily Mirror has said were causing "uneasiness" in Britain.

RICH IN MEXICO

From Congressman Bradley (R-Mich.) came reports that Americans are getting rich and living in luxury in Mexico off lend-lease funds. Bradley said he was informed some Americans were enjoying fine living conditions, driving the best automobiles and patronizing the better resorts while escaping United States taxes. He proposed a congressional investigation.

WAR CONTRACTS

The knotty question of terminating war contracts—a headache to contractors and Congress alike—was the big subject today before the chairman of the house military and naval affairs committee. Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) have diametrically opposed bills which the rules committee has shunted back to them before it will take a stand.

Vinson wanted Comptroller Lindsay C. Warren to have only a "post audit" of the terms by which a war contract is terminated, that is, authority to decide whether any "fraud or carelessness" was involved. May thinks the comptroller general should be the absolute boss of the settlement.

Traffic Mishap Fatal

BELLEFONTAINE, April 29.—William Runkle, 21, died today of injuries received in a traffic accident April 23.

About Town

Farewell for Ned Wells

Ned Wells was honored at a farewell dinner by the Salem Saddle and Polo club last night at the German hall. Wells will leave May 12 for Cleveland to be inducted into the Navy.

President Franklin Smith presided over a brief program following the dinner, when Walter Fernengel presented a gift to Wells in behalf of the club.

Guests of the club on this occasion were Frank Brian, Gus Tolerton, Elwood Hammill, Fred Franke, Emerson Smith, Dr. F. R. Crowley, Don Montgomery, Wilbur Whitacre and Charles Herbert.

Harris Faces Hearing

I. G. Harris, owner of the Harris poolroom, 159 E. Broadway, has been summoned to appear before the state liquor board in Columbus May 17 on a charge of exhibiting and promoting the sale of baseball tickets and tip tickets in violation of the Ohio Liquor Control act.

The summons came as a result of charges placed against Harris by state liquor inspectors when they checked his establishment on April 18, police reported.

Recent Births

At the City hospital:
A son yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dubbs, 1190 N. Ellsworth ave.

A son born last night to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Basinger of North Lima.

A son born last night to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Summer of Columbiana.

Firemen Called Twice

Firemen yesterday answered two calls, one at 1:35 p. m. to extinguish a grass fire just beyond the Pennsylvania railroad tracks on the Lisbon road and another at an unoccupied building behind the residence of John Taylor, 879 S. Lincoln ave. Chief Vincent Malloy said little damage resulted.

Hospital Notes

Admissions to the City hospital include:
For medical treatment—William P. Bolen, 67 Home Circle.
For surgical treatment—Nick Fudal of Lisbon, Miss Doris Evelyn Lawrence of Lisbon.

Minstrels Are Enjoyed

Outstanding amateur entertainment was presented in the P. T. A.-sponsored Austintown Minstrel revue at the High school auditorium last night. A second performance will be given at 8:15 tonight. The revue is presented as a benefit for Junior High school projects.

School Board Meeting

The board of education will meet at 8 p. m. Monday in the High school building when arrangements for a special meeting to consider a new salary schedule for Salem teachers may be completed.

HOW WE'RE WINNING THE BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC

THESE SPECTACULAR PICTURES show how the Allies are winning the Battle of the Atlantic. An RCAF Sunderland flying boat has scored against a German submarine, left, and, as the U-boat goes down the Nazi crew abandons ship, right. The plane was hit by the submarine's deck gun but the crew members chewed up 50 odd sticks of chewing gum and plugged up the hole. (International)

AIR OFFENSIVE

RAF Mesquites ran a diversionary feint to the battered North sea port of Hamburg last night while the Lancaster formations, in a sudden shift of blows on Nazi air strength, struck the Kjeller airframe factory 11 miles northeast of Oslo in a 1,500-mile round trip. All the planes returned.

Concentrated Attack

The RAF said "The target was clearly identified and first reports indicate the bombing was well concentrated."

The Lancaster force probably was one of the small, specialized night precision groups which have been hitting a number of key German installations in France recently.

The Kjeller factory, repairing German fighter and troop-carrying planes, was bombed in daylight by U. S. Liberators last Nov. 18 in the Eighth air force's third and last raid into Norway. At that time the installation was described as the Nazis' principal maintenance and repair base in Norway.

Oslo itself last was attacked by the RAF in September, 1942, when four Mosquitos staged a daring daylight raid on Gestapo headquarters. Three waves of Flying Fortresses and Liberators, staging the first triple-header strike of the U. S. Eighth air force, hammered French objectives Friday during a day of 2,800 sorties from Britain in the grinding campaign.

Yesterday's attacks cost the U. S. strategic air forces four bombers and three fighters, and poured some 4,800 tons of bombs on prime targets.

One wave of Flying Fortresses, some 250 strong, hammered the Avord airdrome 130 miles south of Paris, and another of equal strength struck at coastal fortifications in the Cherbourg area. Later about 250 Liberators bomber the Pas-De-Calais area.

The heavily-escorted Fortresses bombing the Avord air base met some German fighters, which fled before the escorts could engage.

Other formations of fighter-bombers and medium bombers struck an airfield repair plant at Tours, airfields in northern France and another in central France, and enemy hangars at Le Bourget in Paris.

The U. S. Ninth tactical air force disclosed that P-38 Lightnings now had been converted into fighter-bombers and had joined the aerial armada carrying out this "eve of invasion" offensive "designed to neutralize German air power, disrupt traffic of troops and supplies, and smash defense points in France and Belgium."

The Lightning has a speed of over 400 miles per hour and a 600-mile operating range.

German raiders flew off the south coast of England during the night, but an authoritative announcement said none went inland.

Principals In Ward Company Case Plan Next Move In Court

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 29.—Comparative calm prevailed today in the stormy battle between the federal government and Montgomery Ward and Co. as principals prepared for ensuing court skirmishes in the fight over the government's seizure of the big mail order house.

While the Chicago plants remained under supervision of government officials and federal troops continued their detail at the plant, the company's board chairman, Sewell L. Avery, held a vote of "full confidence" from shareholders.

But Avery, by court order, was restrained from taking over his $100,000-a-year office, despite the approval of shareholders of his policies and his re-election as chief executive officer.

The 69-year-old Avery, central figure in the company's resistance to the government's taking possession of the properties, as well as 12 other directors, were re-elected to their posts at the stockholders' annual meeting yesterday.

The shareholders expressed confidence in the management and leadership of Avery, whose forcible election from his office Thursday climaxed his steadfast refusal to comply to orders from the war labor board and President Roosevelt to extend an expired contract with a CIO union and his adamant stand against government seizure.

As the stockholders, overflowing a Loop hotel ballroom, adopted a resolution concurring in Avery's position, company counsel in federal court attacked the government seizure of the plant and opened its counter-suit to obtain dissolution of the temporary injunction granted the government Thursday night.

The hearing, before Federal Judge William H. Holly, was continued to Monday and the 74-year-old jurist, who is to retire July 1, indicated a decision would be given Tuesday. Ward counsel asked dismissal of the temporary injunction, which restrains company officers from interfering with government operation of the properties, contending seizure of the plant was unconstitutional.

They maintained the firm was engaged in non-war activity and the War Labor disputes act permits confiscation only of plants engaged in war work.

Attorney General Francis Biddle, who obtained the injunction, argued that the "resistance of officials of this company to the lawful possession" by the government should be prohibited until the far-reaching issue is decided by the court. That the case will be carried to the United States Supreme court for final disposition is the opinion of court observers.

7 DISTRICT SOLDIERS ON WOUNDED ROSTER

vasion onslaught. Allied planes unleashed 65,000 tons of explosives on Europe. In 24 hours of Wednesday and Thursday this week, some 5,000 Allied warplanes unloaded 12,000 tons of bombs.

We aren't told the type of all the planes used, but included in the 5,000 were 1,500 heavy American bombers. Do you know how much gasoline the largest machines use? Well, we can't do more than give rough estimates, but some of the big fellows burn 300 gallons an hour at average speed, and since that's 200 miles and upward, their gas consumption is in the neighborhood of a gallon per mile.

The heavies recently have been making round trips to close to 2,000 miles. So if we guess that our 1,500 bombers Thursday had a round trip of 1,500 miles, they probably consumed a minimum of 8,250,000 gallons of gas.

Thus there is an Amazonian flow of gasoline through the engines of the thousands of airplanes which are tearing into the enemy in preparation for the kill. And it can be said that all the oil and gasoline which our home front has given up to rationing in the war effort has been absorbed by our fighting forces. That shows how necessary conservation has been. It would be a sad day if we ran short of gasoline on the fighting fronts.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz maintained his aerial offensive with strikes against Guam—taken from the U. S. in the first month of war—and Truk and Ponape in the Caroline Islands. The Guam raid, April 24, was the first by land-based army and navy bombers based in the Marshalls.

There was no substantiation of a Berlin report reputedly out of Tokyo that Japanese submarines had torpedoed and damaged two American aircraft carriers at or "east of the Marshalls."

Some of the beauties to be seen in "Cover Girl," a merry, magical musical, starring Rita Hayworth and Gene Kelly.

The technicolor musical, "Cover Girl," starring Rita Hayworth with Gene Kelly and a collection of the nation's leading magazine "cover" models, shows at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

Music by Jerome Kern and Ira Gershwin highlights a gay story of a great stage beauty's granddaughter and her impressario-sweetheart. Color and music vie for attention with 15 of the country's loveliest models in the picture.

The cast includes Lee Bowman, Phil Silvers, Otto Kruger, Jinx Falkenberg, Eve Arden, Leslie Brooks, Anita Colby, Curt Bois and Ed Brophy.

At the State Wednesday only is mystery-melodrama "Action in Arabia," with George Sanders, Virginia Bruce, Lenore Aubert, Gene Lockhart, Robert Armstrong and H. B. Warner in leading roles. Showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the State is the latest comedy co-starring young Donald O'Connor and Patsy Ryan, two of the screen's brightest young players. "Chip Off the Old Block" also has Ann Blyth, Helen Vinson, Arthur Treacher, Helen Broderick, Patric Knowles and J. Edward Bromberg in the cast.

At the State tonight for the last times is the widely-discussed John Steinbeck story, "Lifeboat," with Tallulah Bankhead, John Hodiak, Mary Anderson, William Bendix and Henry Hull.

The Grand's Sunday and Monday double feature program will be: A new East Side Kids adventure, "Million Dollar Kid," with Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall, Gabriel Dell and Billy Benedict in their accustomed roles as "the kids" and Louise Currie, Herbert Hayes and Noah Beery, Sr.; and "The Sultan's Daughter," starring former burlesque star Ann Corio, with Charles Butterworth, Fortunio Bonanova, Edward Norris and Freddie Fishes and his band.

"The Whistler," starring Richard Dix, a film version of the popular radio mystery program, is the first feature on a double bill showing at the Grand Tuesday and Wednesday. J. Carroll Naish, Gloria Stuart, Alan Dinehart, and Joan Woodbury are in the supporting cast. The second picture on the program is a comedy-romance, "Hi, Good-Lookin'," featuring Harriet Hilliard, Ozzie Nelson and his orchestra, Jack Teagarden and his orchestra, Eddie Quillan, Kirby Grant and Fuzzy Knight.

Concluding the week at the Grand are: "The Texas Kid," a western adventure story with Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton; and "Sweethearts of the U. S. A.," a musical featuring Una Merkel, Donald Novis, Parkyakarkus, Lillian Cornell, Judith Gibson, Cobina Wright, Sr., and several big name bands.

Seen tonight at the Grand for the last times are: "Riders of the Deadline" with William Boyd and a serial, "The Phantom," featuring Tom Tyler.
